This is a great way to begin learning Thai -- to acquire the essential foundation people need in learning a foreign language. The only complaint I have is that -- once you start seriously looking into the Pimsleur method -- you discover that the complete foundation includes Level I, Level II, and Level III. Each level has thirty 30-minute lessons.

The biggest problem with Pimsleur Thai is that there is only one course level available. More popular languages (Spanish, Mandarin, French) have up to 5 levels and help you reach an intermediate to low-advanced level of proficiency. With only 1 level, Pimsleur Thai won't help you advance further than the level of a beginner.
