described by stuart hall as one of the most riveting and important films produced by a black writer in recent years my beautiful laundrette was a significant production for its director stephen frears and its writer hanif kureshi omar member of a pakistani family getting ahead in 1980s thatcher s britain is charged to make over a rundown launderette and in the process falls in love with the brooding johnny daniel day lewis in career making form christine geraghty interrogates my beautiful laundrette as a crossover film between television and cinema realism and fantasy and as an independent film targeting a popular audience she deftly shows how it has remained an important and watchable film in the 1990s and early 2000s and her exploration of the film itself is a remarkable original and entertaining achievement
